

MANDY HERBERT

For Henvey Inlet First Nation Council

I'm a mother, a wife, an athlete and I love to run. You will find me most at peace when I am running in the trails, hiking, walking or quietly taking in the sun from the shores of camp. So much has changed this past year. Like you, I've been faced with difficult challenges related to the ongoing pandemic and the ever changing policies that are resulting from it. More specifically, this pandemic has shifted the way we are communicating and working with each other... we are taking to face calls, Zoom, Skype, emails, small meetings and social media. This also means that the way you typically access crucial information has changed.

The time to elect me to Council is NOW. Here's why:

With over a decade of post-secondary education and four completed degrees, my greatest asset to the community today is a unique set of skills which I believe are now more essential to share with the members than ever. When it comes to administrative responsibilities, education, research, legal frameworks, finance, communication skills (online and in-person), I naturally excel in each of these areas while maintaining an unbiased, rational, opinionated but open mind. I am not afraid to ask the difficult questions. My personal beliefs surrounding honesty and integrity are in line with the leadership responsibilities a Council member should possess.

Educated
Resourceful
Motivated
Honest
Transparent
Accountable
Open-minded
Inclusive
Hard working

As an elective representative, I will strive to ensure that all aspects of governance reflect not just part of but the entire community, this includes our community of off-reserve members as well. I will support only honest and transparent decision making. I intend to offer effective administrative options that will more efficiently account for and distribute the information that matters most.
